Vocabulary:

Tense:

Simple past tense (Active):

- I faced mounting challenges during my undergraduate study from 2015 to 2019.

Interpretation: This sentence uses the simple past tense, indicating that the challenges occurred at a specific time in the past.

Simple past tense (Passive):

- I was faced with mounting challenges during my undergraduate study from 2015 to 2019

Interpretation: In this sentence, "was faced" is the passive construction, indicating that you were the one experiencing or dealing with the challenges during your undergraduate study.

Past perfect tense:

- I had faced mounting challenges during my undergraduate study from 2015 to 2019.

Interpretation: This sentence uses the past perfect tense, suggesting that the challenges happened before another past event.

Past perfect tense + Infinitive:

- I had to face mounting challenges during my undergraduate study from 2015 to 2019.

Interpretation: This sentence uses the past perfect and the infinitive "to face," emphasizing the necessity of facing challenges.

Present Perfect Continuous (have/has been):

- Use "have/has been" when describing an action or situation that started in the past and continues into the present.
- I have been working on this project for two hours.
- I have been facing mounting challenges throughout my undergraduate study from 2015 to 2019.

Interpretation: This implies that the challenges were ongoing and had an impact on your entire undergraduate study period up to the present moment.

Past Perfect Continuous (had been):

- Use "had been" when describing an action or situation that was ongoing in the past but was completed before another past action.
- I had been studying for hours when my friends called.
- I had been facing mounting challenges during my undergraduate study from 2015 to 2019.

Interpretation: This usage of the past perfect continuous tense suggests that the facing of challenges was ongoing, and it had been happening for a duration of time leading up to a specific point in the past. It emphasizes the continuous nature of the challenges that occurred in the period before another past event or point in time.
